What is substance use prevention?

Substance use prevention places a focus on helping people develop the knowledge, attitude, and skills they need to make good choices about harmful behaviors of substance misuse or abuse.

Each substance use prevention coalition tailors prevention efforts around the needs of their community, using effective community-based, school-based and/or individual evidence-based programs.

School-based programming focuses on classroom presentations, early identification, screening and referral to services. Community-based programming focuses on establishing or changing community standards, policies and attitudes towards substance use. Individual based programming focuses on targeted interventions to high risk individuals, to reduce the likelihood of an individual developing a substance use disorder.

Prevention Resource Centers (PRCs)

Three Prevention Resource Centers provide regional support across the state to students, parents, educators, community groups, community agencies, law enforcement and any other interested entity looking for prevention resource materials or support. Each PRC has a resource library with videos, DVDs, books, CDs, brochures and curriculums available to the public for use. PRC staff are also able to provide training and education in the areas of prevention.
